Re: Planning for September

Dear Parent/Carer

I expect your child is beginning to find our lock-down situation frustrating as the time is wearing on, as many of us are. You may be getting concerned that they need some purpose or direction; they may even be missing the routine and challenges of lessons, learning, and school life! What your child does have to look forward to and can focus on now, is starting at College in September.

Reigate College have created a set of brilliant resources to prepare students for the new academic year. On Monday (4 May) some Explore Your Subjects tasks and assignments will go live on their website for students to have a go at, for the specific subjects they are interested in.

East Surrey College have done the same and their excellent collection of subject-specific Remote Projects are already available.

Before they get on with looking into individual subjects however, both Colleges suggest beginning with the General Study Skills tasks on each of their sites, to get into the right mind-set for learning and refresh their learning skills

- Reigate College: Get Ready for Reigate: Skills
- East Surrey College: Study Skills

Students who are applying for other Colleges or Sixth Forms are likely to find similar arrangements are being put in place and should contact those establishments directly to find out.

The materials are there to support, inspire and engage with but we know that students are in different circumstances at home and may not all have access to the right resources; it is not obligatory for current applicants to complete this work to maintain their offers of a place.

Here at The Warwick School Mrs Pearce is available to provide advice and guidance on any Careers matters or concerns. She works closely all year round with the Colleges and with our own teachers, tutors and Heads of Year and has a wealth of knowledge and information to draw on. Do just drop her an email if you have anything you'd like to discuss or have questions she can answer for you pce@warwick.surrey.sch.uk.

Best wishes
The Warwick School Team
